

PRB PRESENTATION: RESPONSE TO PRB SECOND ANNUAL REPORT

Lt. Chris Moody

RECOMMENDATION 1

In an effort to reinforce the ways in which APD has updated its policies and practices in the last two years in response to the current reform initiatives, the Department should develop a video that summarizes these changes and promote it both externally (City Council, website, community meetings) and internally (training sessions, officer briefings)

APD RESPONSE

APD agrees with the recommendation and provides the information among many platforms, the substance delivered exceeds the scope of a single video.

RECOMMENDATION 2

Immediate family members should be able to access factual information that does not impede investigations of critical incidents. In the event an immediate family member requests additional information that the APD is unable to provide, the APD will provide that family member with the phone number to the assigned investigator at the District Attorney's Office.

APD RESPONSE

APD is committed to providing the contact information for the primary investigative agency.

RECOMMENDATION 3

The MIRT review should acknowledge and address any incidences of explicit language within critical events, with an eye toward potential accountability or other interventions such as counseling or training.

APD RESPONSE

APD agrees with the recommendation.

RECOMMENDATION 4

The Department should consult with its affiliated chaplains about relevant techniques, training, or other resources for effectively dealing with members of the public who are experiencing conflict or crisis, both in the patrol setting or other contexts.

APD RESPONSE

APD agrees with the recommendation.

RECOMMENDATION 5

The Department should focus resources and attention on the goal of expanding the "public safety pipeline" by working with Anaheim school districts, and should collaborate with local businesses and City officials to help fund the programs.

APD RESPONSE

This recommendation is already being realized, as well as sufficiently funded through the currently existing General Fund budget.
